"There are too many books I haven't read,
too many places I haven't seen, too many mem-

We hope the 1968 Tiger will be a lasting

Two of the money-making projects of the Junior class were a cookie sale and the concession stand. Both were big successes. The money raised was used for the Junior-Senior Prom.

Besides the Prom the Juniors were involved in other school activities. Three members of the class were on the Student Council. Five boys went out for football. Of the five Jrs. who went out for basketball, three made Varsity and two were regular starters. Two Junior girls were Varsity cheerleaders.

A pancake feed was the sophomores' money-making project for the first semester. Despite the fact that they had to quit early because the sausage supply ran out, the project was a complete success.

The second semester project was a carnival in the school gym. It was barrels of laughs.

There were four sophomores on the Student Council. This was the largest number of members from one class, and a tribute to our class.

The sophomores were also well represented in sports. Most of the boys in the class participated in at least one sport and two of the girls were varsity cheerleaders.

This year the Freshman have done an outstanding job. They had a spaghetti dinner, which was a great success. The Freshman were quick to think up a coat check service for home basketball games. Also, the Freshman raised money among the class and other students to purchase a gift for Dale Stuke, who was hospitalized for several months. With the help from one of the sponsors the class had a huli huli chicken dinner in the spring, a taste of Hawaii in Kansas. This bringing to a close a wonderful year.

Denver, Colorado
April 29 - May 3

The road to Pike's Peak was opened for the season on May 1st. Ours was the first tour bus to make the ascent. We almost lost Eric, who was busier watching the scenery than his footing. a healthy "WHOA!" from Roger saved him.

Jr.-Sr. Prom

May 10, 1968

Palm trees laden with coconuts, bubbling fountains, and an imposing tiki welcomed the Juniors, Seniors, and their guests to the Prom, May 10th. Refreshments were served at a grass hut; the music was provided by the Stage Band of Topeka West High School. It was truly a "Tahitian Holiday".
